Offer of services

We provide our services to all types of businesses, regardless of country of origin, industry or number of employees - we treat all our clients with the highest level of commitment. Our goal is to always provide efficient and optimal solutions tailored according to your specific needs:

- Protection of property - security against crisis
- Preparation for the purchase of assets or a business
- Group/holding structure design and setup
- Merger by amalgamation of companies
- Transfer of business shares or purchase of shares
- Issues of succession
- Financial, tax and legal due diligence, including expert opinions.

Your business has grown from a small office into a company with assets worth hundreds of millions of CZK. You generate a stable turnover and for the period of operation in the Czech market, have reported undistributed profits from previous years; postponing their payout due to the tax burden.

You reinvest your own funds into your business development and may already have, or be considering a bank loan. With branches abroad it becomes increasingly difficult to keep track of financial flows between individual companies and what tax obligations apply to you. Dealing with succession issues in family businesses adds further complexity... Whether you are doing business locally or internationally, what you need right now is to streamline and protect your corporate structure.

Why is group structuring important?

- Risk reduction: separating individual companies or movable and immovable assets helps to minimize the overall risk when implementing new projects.
- Efficiency: an unnecessary complex group structure can be costly, inefficient, tax disadvantageous and unattractive to potential buyers. By removing redundant entities or regrouping them, you can free up "dormant" capital, reduce costs and tax burden, and most importantly save valuable management time.
- Tax planning: with proper planning and a well-designed holding structure, you can reduce your tax burden by up to tens of percent.
- Easier financing: an efficiently set up structure will enable you to finance individual companies in the group in a simpler and clearer way.
- Cost savings: it may happen that some companies are no longer active or, on the contrary, perform a similar function and are duplicated. Eliminating such redundant entities frees up capital and reduce costs.
- Simplification of the property structure and transactions: there is no need to draw complex property entanglements and sometimes meaninglessly connected companies, including complicated transactions between them. A more transparent structure can also help you in succession planning or the sale of the business.

What do you get by working with us?

Each transaction is unique. And we act accordingly. Our team is ready to advise you specifically, clearly, and wherever it is needed.

- Plan: structuring a group or set of assets is a complex and long-term process that requires careful planning. We will always discuss the entire process with you in advance, propose a timeline, and provide a precise action plan – giving you confidence and clarity at every stage.
- Knowledge and experience: we have compiled several options for clients from both individuals and companies. For example, we proposed and implemented tax and legal solutions for the restructuring groups operating in Central and Eastern Europe with Czech owners and a holding company in Great Britain, supported the company in its expansion in Central and Eastern Europe, and assisted with structuring the construction of a hotel complex in Zanzibar.
- Global perspective: our expertise includes international procedures and methodologies. We discuss individual solutions and their effects with foreign consultants. Whether your business operates in the Czech Republic or anywhere else in the world, you are assured of consistency and quality.
- Everything under one roof: our team of auditors, tax advisors, lawyers, experts and accountants are available to you even after the completion of the restructuring project. The acquired knowledge of your company and experience will enable us to provide you with relevant suggestions for improvement in other services.

„The Acredos company helped me and my partner resolve the complicated ownership of numerous companies and assets, both in the Czech Republic and abroad. Over more than thirty years, we have undertaken many projects and interesting investments, but we have implemented them without long-term planning from a legal and tax point of view and without considering the potential transfer to our descendants.

With Acredos, we have learned that even seemingly intractable challenges can be solved with expertise, credibility, and humanity so that associates can rest easy knowing that everything is set up correctly. “
